The INRS (National Institute for Research and Security) highlight Nanni

An INRS team has come to Nanni Industries to realize a report in order to highlight her exclusive initiative consisting in replacing trichloroethylene solvent, a dangerous substance used in engine degreasing.

In 2007, Nanni has launched a campaign aimed at replacing this solvent to ensure her operators health and security. The challenge was finding a product which efficiency was similar to trichloroethylene. Today, it is done with less toxic product such as Hyso 99.

Nanni is one of the few French companies to have successfully developed an operation of such a scale.
